

OPERATION SMILE INTERNATIONAL STUDENT LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE AND MISSION TRAINING WORKSHOP

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

Every July Operation Smile hosts the International Student Leadership Conference (ISLC). This conference is a chance for school and university students to meet likeminded people from all over the world, learn more about Operation Smile and the difference they can make, develop their own leadership skills and hear from inspiring speakers from all sorts of different backgrounds.

The ISLC is hosted in a different city every year, and regularly attracts over 500 participants from more than 30 different countries. To find out more about how you can join in, contact

MISSION TRAINING WORKSHOP

Each year dozens of school and university students join Operation Smile's international medical missions where they play a vital role within the volunteer team. School pupils teach basic, potentially life-saving healthcare modules, presenting them to our patients, their families and other local community groups. University students take on the role of mission journalist interviewing our staff, volunteers, patients and their families and creating all sorts of content which is shared around the world.

If you think this is for you and you'd like to find out more about the application process then contact students.uk@operationsmile.org
